YouTube is a video sharing website that allows users to upload videos, view user-created content, and share videos. The site was founded by three former PayPal employees in February 2005.

The site is operated by the YouTube company through Google's online advertising program. Once the user has created an account, he or she can select a username and upload videos. Videos are labeled by tags (e.g. georgebushvideoplaylist, politicastudy) or keywords (e.g. 'Bush' for videos about George W. Bush, 'GOP' for videos by Republican politicians).

Comments, rankings, favorites, and playback history are recorded for each video. The videos can be subscribed to
